

ABSTRACT

An elongated tool transport box comprised of two halves hingeably secured along a common edge, one half serving as a lid and the other half serving as the storage compartment for a plurality of power tools and accessories, there being positioned at one end thereof a handle and at the opposing end thereof, a pair of rotatable wheels for ease of transport. The compartmentalized section being adjustable to accommodate a variety of power tools of different shapes and sizes, and there further being an exterior securing means which allows the entire tool transport box to be secured to an immovable object.